AMERICAN ITALIAN PASTA COMPANY

American Italian Pasta Company is the largest producer of dry pasta in North America with high-quality, efficient manufacturing facilities strategically located in Columbia, South Carolina, Excelsior Springs, Missouri, and Tolleson, Arizona. AIPC has the industry's best manufacturing footprint, ideally situated to service the foodservice industry while lowering total supply chain cost.

AIPC understands that foodservice operators have varying quality and price point requirements. Our ability to source multiple raw materials allows us to provide pasta perfectly suited to any operator's needs. Combined with our unique supply chain logistics and consistently good quality, AIPC is your pasta partner when value is a top priority.

American Italian Pasta Company, with its Montalcino brand, offers quality pasta made with 100% carefully selected hard amber durum wheat.

Foodservice Operators can count on Montalcino to stand up to the rigors of foodservice applications.

AIPC's experience and expertise enables foodservice operations to use Montalcino in a cost efficient way to achieve outstanding results.
